61ST ANNUAL CONFERENCE

October 11-14, 2023

We're launching an education-based Salary Supplement Program for staff who work with children birth to 5 years old.

Am I eligible?

- Are you a teacher, assistant, floater, or director in a licensed center or family child care home?
- Do you work at least 10 hours a week?
- Do you make less than $23 an hour?
- Do you have a CDA or at least 12 credit hours of Birth-5 coursework?

If the answer is yes to all questions, you are eligible.

How much will I receive?

Your supplement will depend on your level of education, starting with a CDA.

The more education you have, the more money you receive.

How do I apply?

Interested educators must complete an application and provide verification of:

- current employment in a licensed child care program.
- current wages.
- education earned via official transcript/ National CDA certificate.

Exciting News!

Welcome to our 61st Annual Conference! We are gathered to connect, collaborate, and learn together. Our 2023 focus is all about play; how children learn about the world and themselves. “Learn to Play, Play to Learn” is to remind of us the importance of play-based learning and how it fulfills a fundamental role in child development.

Early education professionals appreciate the value and necessity of lifelong learning. Our conference offers many avenues to help us maintain quality practices. While you’re here, take in the valuable information that will be shared by our keynote speaker, Lisa Murphy, the Office of Early Childhood panel discussion, and the many sessions. Don’t forget to visit the exhibit hall with a wide variety of vendors offering books, learning materials, and other products for your programs.

It has been an honor to serve as president of AECA. When you come to the end of any experience, there is always a mixture of emotions - relief that responsibilities are coming to an end, and a sense of gratitude for all the lessons you’ve learned. The #1 lesson for me has been you, the people! I can’t begin to count the number of people I have worked with, met, and mostly, learned from. During my term, I have been so impressed with Paul Lazenby, our Executive Director, and the AECA staff’s daily work to ensure that our association is run with excellence. Our AECA board of directors and affiliates, membership, and colleagues are “boots on the ground” across our great state. Each of you has enriched my life over the last two years. Thank you!

I live life with three G’s in mind: Give, Gain, and Grow. I have achieved all of these while serving as your president these past two years. I’m excited to see the work that will further advance the mission of AECA. Enjoy the conference - “Learn to Play, Play to Learn!”

Best Regards,

Welcome to the 61st Annual AECA Conference. We are so glad you're here and hope that the energy, knowledge, and camaraderie that are always part of this conference will refine or even transform your vision for how to educate young children. The theme is "Learn to Play... Play to Learn." It's easy to understand how children love to play. This conference is about play being how young children develop the skills needed for success. Children just know they're playing; adults must understand they're also learning! This is our message. In 2016, Arkansas introduced revised early learning standards for children 0-60 months (CDELS). While these standards have been in use for seven years, there are still those who are unaware of what they are and how to use them in the classroom. Our goal is that the sessions you attend and conversations you have here will help you connect the dots between play and learning across all development domains that are part of our state standards—social-emotional, physical, cognitive, language, literacy, math, science, social studies, and creative arts. When you leave here, you will have some powerful tools to take back to your programs that children will enjoy and when implemented, you can be confident your classroom is helping build their future.

At AECA, we have a singular focus of seeing our workforce become one of the most educated and effective group of early childhood professionals in the country. All our initiatives are dedicated to helping YOU be successful working with young children. The T.E.A.C.H. Early Childhood[®] ARKANSAS scholarship has exceeded all expectations—now helping over 370 teachers, directors, family child care educators and other staff go back to school to get their formal education in Birth to 5 development. The education pathways have expanded beyond just CDA, associate and bachelor's degrees, now offering scholarships for non-degree coursework and teacher licensure in early childhood. If you have been thinking about going back to school, there is no better time than now. Come by the AECA table in the hallway and talk with the T.E.A.C.H. staff about how you can do this. Several of our participating colleges are represented here so you can also visit with them about what program would be right for you.

AECA is also continuing to focus on compensation, assisting direct care staff financially with Step Up to WAGE$ supplements which reward education and commitment to a child care employer. Just this fall, we launched our Early Educator Apprenticeship for existing T.E.A.C.H. scholars to enhance their college coursework, adding a two-year hands-on partnership with an expert mentor. Finally, we are piloting programs leading to concurrent enrollment in credit-bearing CDA coursework while students are still in high school. What a great way to grow our workforce!

Thank you for your support for everything we do at AECA. This is YOUR association. The Board and staff are dedicated to your well-being, your continued knowledge and your fulfillment in this amazing profession called early childhood education.

Committed to you,

Paul Lazenby

What is a Child Savings Account?

A Child Savings Account (CSA) allows families to start saving for their children to attend college, trade school or technical school. Children with a CSA are four times more likely to complete a degree.

How does it work?

Enroll in a free Kids to College my529 account and start watching your savings grow. Once the beneficiary reaches 18 years of age, the money can be used for tuition and other qualified expenses.

How do I enroll?

Visit entergy.com/kids to verify eligibility and create a my529 account. Entergy will contribute $50 to get you started.

LETRS Training: Foundational Literacy - Playing with Sounds from Beginning to End

Arkansas Dept. of Education Division of Elementary and Secondary Education

Did you know that ninety percent of brain growth happens before kindergarten? The most rapid time of brain development in a child’s life happens in the first five years.

During this session, participants will hear an overview of the Pre-K RISE initiative and the early intervention efforts the Arkansas Department of Education is making to provide foundational literacy support for early childhood students and educators, in a developmentally appropriate way.

Our team is looking forward to speaking at the preconference day at the AECA Conference in October. The 3-hour session, Playing with Sounds from Beginning to End, will be a great opportunity for early childhood educators interested in taking the entire 35.5 hour LETRS EC Course to preview the content and understand all the course requirements. During this session at the preconference, we will give out the link to register for the entire 35.5 hour professional development course but we would also love to get the word out to other educators that might be interested and did not have the opportunity to attend the preconference. If anyone should ask, please let them know that all information can be found online at the PreK RISE Website under the Phase 2: LETRS EC Tab found on the left-hand side of the page. The course is free and participants that successfully complete the course will receive a $500 stipend.

Remembering to Remember: Closing the Gap Between Knowing and Doing (A Faith-Based Approach) Leslie Dudley Corbell and Diane Doucet Matthews

“Remember the former things; remember the days of old; remember the words of the Lord Jesus Christ; the memory of the righteous is a blessing; bless the Lord, oh my soul and forget not all his benefits; do this in remembrance of Me; remember the Sabbath.” (Isaiah 46:9, Deut. 32:7, Acts 20:35, Proverbs 10:7, Psalm 103:2, 1 Cor. 11:24, Exodus 20:8) The word “remember” is found 240 times in the Old and New Testament. God has communicated to us His high value on remembering! Are there roadblocks to remembering as we work with early childhood children or even as we live in this world as adults? Have you ever thought, “This child knows better,” and wondered why the child isn’t doing it? The Mind of a Child podcast hosts Leslie Corbell and Diane Matthews will facilitate this session where participants will dive into ten familiar bible verses. These verses will present keys to unlock the wisdom we desire in our daily moments in the classroom and at home, guiding us to helpful tips and strategies to use. Together, we will explore the why and how of closing the gap between knowing and doing — for us and for the children in our care.

Introduction to Coaching Skills UA Early Care and Education Projects—Jessica Fox

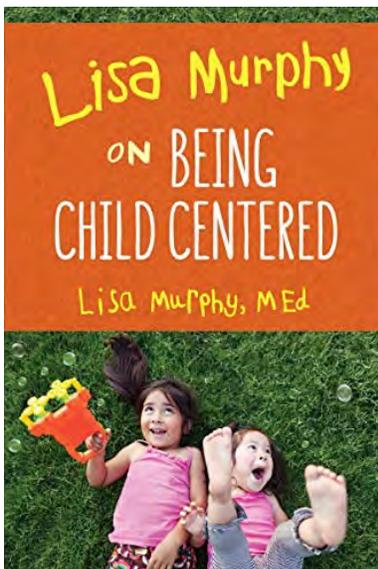

In this interactive training program, participants will overview the benefits of coaching and learn about the skills and mindset needed for coaching to be successful. Through a series of information and hands-on activities, participants will practice active listening, asking high-quality questions, and the GROW coaching model, putting them on the path to turn work-experienced challenges into learning situations.

Every Interaction Counts: Improving Language Environments Equitably in Early Childhood Education Ginger Galban

It is well established that educator-child interactions are essential for child care quality, with a large and growing body of research connecting early language environments with childhood outcomes. After analyzing daylong audio data from a sample of more than 24,000 children, the national nonprofit LENA has a clearer picture of adult-child interaction in home and early education settings than ever thought possible. This unprecedented database establishes the first-ever benchmarks across care settings, revealing a stark picture of inequity between and within classrooms and providing robust evidence for improving support for the early childhood workforce.

FRIDAY

8:00-9:30	Location
The Value of Play and Interactions for Infant Toddler Social-Emotional Learning Jenny Dura and Annie Zay Play is the vehicle for children to learn about themselves, others, and the world around them. This session will focus on the power of play and positive interactions on infants' and toddlers' social-emotional learning and development. How can educators provide experiences to help infants and toddlers gain skills to express themselves and cope with feelings and challenges? This engaging session will give you a fresh perspective on how play and positive interactions can help.	Silver City I
Finding Joy in Our Day - Observing Children As They Learn Through Play Angie Franks and Dana Hightower Discover the joy of observing children throughout the day. Joy can be chosen everyday and is contagious! We will share some tips and strategies on implementing best practices for accessing throughout the day. We want to help you create a meaningful record of your day as we look at daily schedules and transitions for both spontaneous and planned opportunities for observations as children are learning through play.	Silver City II
Intro to Family Engagement: The Engage Continuum Danielle Thomas This training is designed to give educators an understanding of family engagement and how it differentiates from family involvement. It also highlights the barriers that can sometimes prevent family engagement and give guidance on how to remove those barriers. Participants will also learn about a more intensive professional development series, called the Engage Continuum, and how they can involve their entire early childhood center in learning more about family engagement.	Silver City III
The Stress-Buster Framework Jessica Fox Stress is an inescapable element in our lives and, for too many providers, chronic. Unregulated stress impacts everything, affecting our health, mood, relationships, and even our students. With a simple framework of tips and techniques, you will learn to reduce your stress and design a personal stress-buster action plan you can use when you need it the most.	Silver City IV
Leadership Track: Sponsored by A-State Childhood Services Relationship-Based Coaching Kairi Elmore and Mollie Menton-Ipsen Relationship-based coaching is a powerful tool that is learner-driven with individualized support. Come and learn more about relationship-based coaching and how it can provide the support people need to learn, grow, and change.	Razorback East & West
Playing with Questioning and Questioning for Playing Dr. Joanna Grymes and Michele Johnson Have you questioned the questions you use in your classroom? Is there a time when questions might not be the way to go? Does context influence the kinds of questions you pose? Do the children in your classroom ask good questions? Do your questions enhance or inhibit play? Are you not sure of your answers to any of these questions? Let's spend some time pondering what good questioning can look like (sound like?) and what it can do for your children and for you.	Blue Dog
AAIMH Track: Sponsored by Arkansas Association of Infant Mental Health Three Core Concepts in Early Brain Development Tosha Smith Early Brain Development is important to know when working with children. In this session we will discuss three core concepts of brain development in collaboration with the Harvard Center on the Developing Child. These concepts are Building the Brain Architecture, and Toxic Stress.	Arkansas Traveler

8:00-9:30		Location
Fathers are KEY to Family Engagement Sarah Paul In this session you will learn how your early childcare program can involve fathers in meaningful ways. We begin by acknowledging stereotypes that sometimes exist around fathers and their involvement in early education. This includes recognizing biases we have based on our own personal experiences. Participants will explore ways to break down barriers some fathers face and together we will explore how to equip fathers with the tools they need to be successful.	Huntersville 1005
Supporting and Extending Children's Mathematical Learning through Exploration and Dramatic Play Brian Mowry Play provides an authentic and engaging context for children to accomplish important cognitive and linguistic milestones at their own developmental pace. As children play, they also engage in mathematical standards, such as number and operations, algebraic thinking, measurement, and geometric and spatial reasoning. This session reviews empirical research and theory informed through a Vygotskian lens focusing on how children develop mathematical thinking through play. Participants will learn ways to scaffold and guide children in productive, self-selected exploratory and pretend play scenarios that integrate literature and games with mathematical knowledge and skills.	DeCantillon 1004

From Mother Goose to Junie B. Jones: How to Make Storytime Fun Mary Spears Polk We will discuss what engaging & developmentally appropriate storytelling can look like from infancy to early elementary. From songs & rhymes during the infant/toddler years to simple stories that preschoolers can actively engage with during the story, to ways to keep early elementary children interested in read alouds. This session will also focus on how your local public library can be a resource for materials for educators and family engagement. Participants will be encouraged to stand, move, & sing in addition to going home with resources and as many hands-on items as this presenter can pull together.	Silver City I

SATURDAY

10:00-11:30		Location
Teasing Mr. Alligator! Fingerplays and Action Rhymes Rhonda Witt Clap, tap, snap, wiggle, stomp and even jump! This training will be loads of fun and very interactive. Learn how to support executive function and transition times with some all-time favorites that have been enjoyed for generations.	Silver City II
Strategies for Supporting Dual Language Learners Tanya Miller-Witsell and Brenda Reynolds Arkansas residents share over 128 home languages! Which languages are represented in your program? Let's come together to discuss what has worked for you and to discover new strategies for welcoming and supporting Dual Language Learners and their families. We can help all children succeed!	Silver City III
Hands on learning: Not Just for Montessori - A Make and Take Session Samantha Gardner and Kelly Pruitt Montessori has been guiding children of all ages to explore with their hands to learn more about the world around them. Using real world tools children develop independence and autonomy over their learning, leading to an in-depth understanding of the work. This session will focus on how you can take a more hands on approach with your children developing their natural curiosity and grow their knowledge. Come prepared to learn and take back ready made lessons.	Silver City IV
"I Love Being A Kid," Said the Teacher! Dee Cox Early Childhood teachers must possess many traits to be a great teacher. Besides smiles, hugs, and adoration from your little fans, you can touch the future with the wisdom you impart and the great example you set. A teacher that loves being a kid requires patience, passion, and love of children. This session will focus on communication and creativity through a visual concept of being a kid in the early childhood classroom.	Razorback East & West
Family Child Care Track: Sponsored by the Family Child Care Network Brigance Early Childhood Screens III Developmental Screening Tool Jackie Couture Brigance Early Childhood Screens III are used to accurately screen skills that are critical predictors of school success, including physical development, language, academic/ cognitive, self-help, and social-emotional skills. Hearing and vision observation surveys are also included. The assessments are aligned with early learning standards for children from birth to age 6. Results are supported by reliability research and provide both norm and criterion-referenced outcomes. Licensed and Registered Homes will receive the Brigance Early Childhood Screens III kit to take back and implement in their program.	Arkansas Traveler
